

Privacy policy

Begner Agenturer AB collect, process and use personal data in accordance with applicable data protection laws.

Begner Agenturer AB take technical and organizational safety measures to protect your personal data from being accessed by unauthorized persons and from being lost. We regularly review our routines to ensure our systems are safe and protected. We reserve the right to update our privacy policy on a continuous basis.

Collection and processing of personal data

Personal data is all information that can be associated with a living person, either directly or indirectly, e.g. name, address and email address.

Begner Agenturer AB collect, process and use personal data, in accordance with applicable data protection laws, if needed for business transactions. E.g. for contact, customer requests, support issues or upon registration for our newsletter.

Personal data received by Begner Agenturer AB is only used in accordance with the intended purpose and is based upon the following legal grounds: consent, agreement, legal obligation and legitimate interest.

The personal data received can be transferred to other organizations and companies if considered necessary for managing the customer request.

The data are saved for the above mentioned purposes as long as you, in your professional role, are a customer of Begner Agenturer AB, are considered to be a potential customer or Begner Agenturer AB believe our services may interest you.
